Sunday Reflection

*"Whoever loves me will keep my word, says the Lord; and my father will love him and we will come to him."
Jn 14:23*

The Jewish people were the first to know and worship one God; they were the first to be given His plan for living, His statutes and commandments. The Lord's first and greatest commandment comes to us through the Jews, the chosen people: "Hear, O Israel! The Lord is our God, the Lord alone! Therefore, you shall love the Lord, your God, with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your strength." Jesus reaffirms this as the greatest commandment in today's Gospel, summarizing the second great commandment, "You shall love your neighbor as yourself." The Lord does not command His people to worship him with "burnt offerings and sacrifices," but desires instead our complete love and devotion, shown by obedience to His commandments.

This awesome God, the all-powerful and all-knowing Creator of heaven and earth, has chosen us to become His adopted children, beloved and protected, if only we open our hearts to love Him and obey His commandments, all of which are given for our good. When we respond by keeping His word, Jesus will come to us with the Father. What an amazing gift we are offered! God Himself promises to abide in us and walk beside us, to help us to fulfill all His intentions for us, and to guide us and protect us all the days of our lives..

Yet, failing to recognize this gift, people may resist what they may see as the restrictions of the commandments. But God's commandments are truly life-giving, and refusing to follow them will eventually lead to misery, spiritual desolation, and the death of our souls.

We are offered this gift, and also given a free choice. Will we choose life, obeying the commandments and devoting our hearts, minds, and souls to loving God and one another, or will we rebel against Him and choose death? Let us understand what is at stake and freely choose life, that we, like the scribe in today's Gospel, may hear the voice of the Lord saying, "You are not far from the kingdom of heaven."

Christ the King Catholic School News

It has been exciting to watch students develop new skills over this first quarter of the school year. At CKCS we work with students each day to connect their school work with the world around them and with our Catholic faith. Many teachers have adopted a Growth Mindset philosophy and taught their students the power of two small words: "not yet". Students are taught that a skill or task which may be challenging for them now, can one day be mastered with effort, persistence, and the motivation to succeed. Many of you know, excellence goes beyond academics.

As we celebrated the Solemnity of All Saints Day last week, I noticed a common thread among the saints and a growth mindset. Saints did not start out perfect. In fact, many saints had very shady pasts. At CKCS, we are not only in the business of applying the growth mindset to academic excellence, we are also in the business of applying the growth mindset to help every child become the best version of themselves. In other words, we are in the business of making saints.

In Christ's Peace,

Vocations Week

National Vocations Awareness Week: Nov. 4-10. During this week, we especially encourage young people to ask themselves "To what vocation in life is God calling me?" We encourage all of us to pray for vocations to the priesthood, diaconate, and consecrated life. Today's society is saturated with noise and constant activity; quiet reflection and prayer are the most essential elements for vocational discernment. In quiet times, consider offering this Vocation Prayer:

LORD OF THE HARVEST,

BLESS young people with the gift of courage to respond to your call. Open their hearts to great ideals, to great things.

INSPIRE all of your disciples to mutual love and giving, for vocations blossom in the good soil of faithful people.

INSTILL those in religious life, parish ministries, and families with the confidence and grace to invite others to embrace the bold and noble path of a life consecrated to you.

UNITE us to Jesus through prayer and sacrament, so that we may cooperate with you in building your reign of mercy and truth, of justice and peace. Amen.

- Pope Francis

Should you have any questions regarding vocations, please do not hesitate to contact Very Rev. Felipe Pulido, Vocations Director, at (509) 248-1911 or at fpulido1@gmail.com

Spiritual Practices

Ignatian Spirituality

Attachments hurt us. If we don't get what we want, we grow unhappy. If we do get it, we experience a flash of pleasure followed by weariness. When we're attached, we can never get rid of the worry of losing the attachment! So for each attachment we pay a price in lost happiness. Fr. DeMello says that there is no way to keep an attachment without struggle, anxiety, fear, and, sooner or later, defeat. The only way to win this battle is to drop the attachment. This is the message of the First Commandment. And the Spiritual Exercises teach us how to do this.

The next of the Spiritual Exercises in Everyday Life for participants is Monday, Nov. 26, 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., in the Activity Center, Holy Spirit Parish Activity Center, Kennewick. Alums are always welcome. To learn more, visit www.spiritual-exercises.com or call Ellen at 628-8626.

Carmelite Corner

Carmelite Insight into the Divine Liturgies:

Bl. Mary of Jesus, O. Carm (1560-1640) excerpts from Profiles in Holiness IV, A Liturgical Contemplative, by Redemptus M. Valabek, O. Carm, (3 of 9)

For Bl. Mary, prayer was above all the imitation of Jesus, an awareness of his presence in our lives, a union with him that surpasses our imaginings, and a living of his very life.

But what makes her witness particularly valuable is that she did not live this Christ-centered life on an individual basis depending on her own progress in mental prayer. She brought it within the reach of everyone. The liturgy is the Church's ordinary school of prayer.

She manifested what all holy people reveal: a great reverence for the smallest ceremony because it is a sign of the loving courtesy towards someone dearly loved.

When she was subprioress she moderated the celebration of the Divine Praises and stressed that the sisters take their time, pausing properly between prayers and psalms. What was being sung and said, she insisted, was not something "to be gotten through," but something which should be filled with beauty and deep feeling. The meaning of the words and ceremonies should not escape the participants.
