Spiritual Practices

Ignatian Spirituality

It's easy to recognize evil, complain, and grumble about unfairness. But Jesus encourages optimism: to seek and find love (God), even in evil or pain. Ignatian Spirituality generally and the Spiritual Exercises specifically promote that type of optimism. In a short booklet about love, a Jesuit once wrote, "Love opens our eyes.... It looks for what is lovable, and finds it." The culmination of the Spiritual Exercises, called the Contemplatio, helps us assess our lives in the light of love so we, too, can see the world as God sees it, and learn to love like God.

For this year's participants, the last meeting of the Spiritual Exercises in Everyday Life (SEEL) will be May 11 at 9 a.m. online. The theme will be Gifts of the Spiritual Exercises. To learn more about SEEL, please visit <https://seeltc.com>.

Carmelite Corner

Ten Day Spiritual Retreat by Titus Brandsma; taken from Essays on Titus Brandsma; Carmelite Media 2004 pages 247-261

Day XI of Retreat Meditation Resolutions 1 & 2

Resolution 1: Learn to die. Help others to die. Teach them to see death in this way. Often picture the deathbed of Mary and ask her to make our death like hers.

Live a life of love. Consider life a slow death. "I die each day" (1 Cor 15:31). Live in a way so that we deserve to die of love.

Resolution 2: Honor our mother, especially as Mother of God, through whom Jesus came down to us. Be glad to be able to contribute to the perennial honor paid her.

Day IX of Retreat: Closing:

Consecration to Our Queen and Mother {part 1 of 3}
Filled with trust we present ourselves before the throne of grace. In spirit we go to heaven, where we contemplate our Lady in glory. We place ourselves by her throne to praise and glorify the Trinity with her. All around the Queen of Heaven there stand all the angels and saints in numberless hosts. Among them there is a place reserved for each of us. "Filled with confidence, then, let us present ourselves."

Sunday Reflection

The Good Shepherd and the Wolf

I remember very clearly the first movie I watched during my pregnancy with my eldest child. In this film, there is a scene where a young boy is kidnapped and shoved into the back of a van guarded by vicious dogs. His mother persists in trying to free him, even as the dogs snap at her. Their bared teeth and full-throated snarls don't slow her efforts in the slightest.

It wasn't a great movie or even a particularly great scene, but I'll never forget this scene. I'll never forget those dogs.

I had just learned that I was a mother a few days ago. The life growing deep within seemed to me as frail as a whispered secret, but I loved it powerfully. I worried constantly if the baby was safe and healthy. I agonized over signs — real or imagined — that could tell me if the poppyseed-sized child was thriving or failing.

I understood, for the first time in my life, why a woman would charge a pack of attack dogs without hesitation — not because she should, but because she has to.

She could choose not to fight, certainly. She could walk away. But why would she? A future without her son is so much more painful than any physical wound. She may fear for her life, but she fears a life without her child so much more.

The Good Shepherd discourse reveals to us the motivation behind God's actions throughout all of salvation history. From Adam to Noah to Abraham, all the way down to the time of the Messiah and beyond, He keeps trying to get us back. He keeps braving the attack dogs, time after time. He never stops. He never grows weary. And it baffles us: what's in it for Him? we wonder, because we are quicker to give up on ourselves than He is. Why does He keep trying?

He could choose not to fight, sure. But why would He? He doesn't want a future without us.

"I will lay down my life for the sheep." — John 10:11
